Foundation Grants

'91 allocations
total $455,795

A wide variety of educational, charitable and social service agencies in Ottawa and Israel were the beneficiaries of grants announced by the Ottawa Jewish Community Foundation for the year ended December 31, 1991.

According to Gerald Berger, president, $455,795 was distributed as compared with $440,345 in 1990. The figures represent income earned during the year from invested capital contributed to the various funds administered by the foundation.

The process includes consultations with either the donor or family each year in accordance with the terms under which the funds were established. Their preferences are taken into account by the Grants and Allocations Committee and ultimately by the Board of Directors.

At the end of 1991 there were 344 individual funds under administration with a capital of $5,172,340. The new insurance program initiated in 1986 has reached $5,050,000.

Contributed capital is retained and only the income is used each year for approved local, national and overseas causes. Foundation leaders are delighted with the progress and the degree of acceptability which the program has in the community. The healthy growth each year in the capital is a direct reflection of the confidence which the foundation enjoys and the desire of the donors to link themselves or loved ones with significant charitable endeavours in perpetuity. An alphabetical listing of the funds in the foundation showing the recipients of grants for 1991 follows:

UJA Board of Directors created to enhance community fundraising

The newly established Board of Directors of the United Jewish Appeal held its inaugural meeting on February 6, 1992. The Board consists of all past chairpersons of the General Campaign and all the past chairs of the Women's Division. In addition three appointments are made by the President of the Vaad Ha'ir for a two year period. This year's appointees are Susan Vered, Robert Greenberg and Herbert Nadolny.

The Board of Directors of the United Jewish Appeal is chaired by Stephen Victor.

The impetus which led to the establishment of the Board was borne out of the deep concern that the Jewish community of Ottawa has had for quite some time now over the effectiveness of its central fundraising campaign - the United Jewish Appeal.

In the summer of 1990, the then president of the Vaad, Dr. Eli Rabin, appointed Susannah Dalfen, former chair of the Women's Division, to chair a Long Range Campaign Planning Committee. The committee began its activities in January of 1990.

It quickly became evident that there were two kinds of issues the committee had to deal with - those of campaign management and structure and those of leadership development.

The Management and Structure subcommittee, focussed its activities on the issue of the development of a body which would serve as a gathering ground for all the past leadership of UJA. By re-engaging past leadership, it was felt, many of the problems which were never properly addressed on cabinet level could be resolved.

Under the chairmanship of Stephen Greenberg the Management and Structure Subcommittee recommended the establishment of the Board of Directors of the United Jewish Appeal.

The February 6, 1992 meeting, which saw past campaign leadership gather in impressive numbers, attests to the timeliness of the Board's establishment.

Stephen Victor, in his opening remarks, stressed the importance of the Board and its scope of activities. Among its most vital tasks will be the development and identification of the future campaign leadership.

The Board will meet four times a year to review campaign's strategy for the present and the future.

The Gilbert Greenberg
Distinguished Service Award of the Jewish Community Council of Ottawa

Members of the Jewish Community are invited to nominate an individual or organization for the 1992 Gilbert Greenberg Distinguished Service Award. The award, initiated in 1980 in tribute to the memory of Past President Gilbert Greenberg is intended to recognize exceptional service to the Jewish Community over the course of many years. It is the highest award the community can bestow.

Nominations shall be submitted to the Selection Committee in writing by Friday, March 27, 1992 including a résumé of the individual's or organization's contribution to community life.

The presentation will be made at the Annual General Meeting of the Community on June 10, 1992. The name of the award winner will be recorded on the tablet in the Jewish Community Centre building. A replica will be given to the recipient.

Address recommendations to Dr. Eli Rabin, Chairman of the Selection Committee, 151 Chapel Street, Ottawa, K1N 7Y2 marked "Nominations for Distinguished Service Award."

Vaad Report

Dr. Maureen Molot, President
PRESIDENT, OTTAWA VAAD HA'R
JEWISH COMMUNITY COUNCIL

New Community Professional: It is my pleasure to welcome to Ottawa Evan Grill, who joined the staff of the Ottawa Vaad Ha'R as its Director of Planning and Budgeting at the beginning of January. Evan, whose previous position was in the budget office of the mayor of New York City, brings to his new responsibilities a host of planning and budgeting skills as well as enormous enthusiasm about his career in Jewish public service. Baruch ha'ba Evan!

UJA 1992 Campaign: The 1992 UJA Campaign is now in the final stretches. Results thus far have been very gratifying. Telethons held over the last couple weeks have raised close to $100,000. Particularly gratifying is that these telethons have brought into the campaign 277 first time donors. Once again a yosher koach to all those involved in the campaign, particularly John Tavel, Lynda Greenberg, Bonnie Merovitz, and their energetic team of volunteers.

Walkathon: With snow on the ground, the walkathon seems many months away. However, now is the time to mark May 31 on your calendars for the Walkathon. The event is being chaired by Peter Greenberg and Ian Sherman. Planning is already underway for what we hope will be a very successful community activity.

Program, Planning and Budgeting Committee: This Vaad Committee, chaired by Lester Aronson, has the responsibility of reviewing and making recommendations on beneficiary agency budgets. It is also beginning to take on a new role - that of monitoring agency expenditures through quarterly reviews of financial statements. In an effort to streamline the budget review process the panel system, operative for many years, has been disbanded. All beneficiary agencies will now present their budgets directly to members of the PP&B Committee. To ensure a thorough review of all budgets, the Committee is working with a new budget form designed to elicit more information and to give Committee members a more detailed picture of agency expenditures. Agencies have been requested to submit their budgets much earlier than in the past and the budget review process will begin almost immediately. As part of a new community effort to be more attentive to financial management following the approval of each agency's budget, PP&B will expect also all beneficiary agencies to submit to it quarterly financial statements.

Canadian Jewish Congress Plenary: The 23rd National Plenary Assembly of Canadian Jewish Congress will take place May 20 to 24, 1992 in Toronto. This important triennial event provides an opportunity for concerned members of the Jewish community from across Canada to hear sessions on issues of importance to national Jewish life and to debate resolutions which guide the CJC in carrying out its mandate as the national representative organization of Canadian Jewry. The theme of the plenary is "Confronting the Future: Let Your Voice Be Heard". Members of the Ottawa community who might be interested in attending the plenary should contact Gerry Kofman at the Vaad offices.

US Population Survey: The Council of Jewish Federations, the national organization of North American Jewry, published the results of its population survey early last fall. The study, admittedly only of American Jewry, paints a picture of Jewish life in the United States that sounds alarm bells to those who are concerned about the future of Jewish life in North America. Canada, we like to think is different, but the trends highlighted by the US survey should make us think long and hard about our own Jewish community, the depth of its knowledge and the quality of its commitment.

The US population survey found levels of intermarriage rising and fewer conversions to Judaism among the non-Jewish partners; not surprising in such circumstances, few of these children receive any Jewish education, with the result that they will have even less to pass on to their children. The survey also discovered that the number of American Jews identifying themselves as Orthodox has declined in the last decade while those identifying as Reform have increased. However Jews identify we have to develop ways to improve the quality of Jewish life so that we strengthen our community and slow what appears to be a relentless increase in assimilation. At the March meeting of the Vaad Board of Trustees we will hear a report about a survey of the Canadian Jewish population. Members of the community might want to note that date (March 25) on their calendars and come to hear about the state of Canadian Jewry.

The Jewish Community Council of Ottawa
Vaad Ha'R
Board of Trustees Meeting will take place on Wednesday, February 26, 7:30 p.m.
Jewish Community Centre
151 Chapel St.
The community is invited to attend.

February 6 'I'Chaim'

PM drops by Kinneret for fond farewell to Ambassador Spector

"Good luck, God bless and save us a bed!"

With these words, Prime Minister Brian Mulroney, obviously delighted with his newest diplomatic appointee, publicly bade farewell to Canada's Ambassador to Israel, Norman Spector, at a reception hosted by His Excellency Itzhak Shelef, ambassador of Israel to Canada.

The prime minister made his remarks before the 70 guests assembled for a February 6 'I'Chaim in honor of Spector held at Kinneret, the official residence of the Israeli ambassador.

Jokingly implying that the new ambassador is Canada's secret weapon in the region, the prime minister said, "I've had Norman around for five years and I thought it only fair that Israel should have him."

"After all," he chuckled, "nothing else has worked in the Middle East."

Mr. Mulroney spoke of Canada's strong relationship with the State, and said, "Norman is remarkably well qualified to serve as ambassador to Israel and this will serve to strengthen the relationship between our two countries."

In welcoming his new colleague to the club, Ambassador Shelef pointed out, with a grin, that Mr. Spector's job is not going to be an easy one in Israel. The new ambassador will be serving in a country which has one prime minister and four million people, all of whom are sure they can do the job better, he laughed.

Acknowledging that his father would have been pleased to hear the kind words being spoken about him, and that his mother would not have believed them, Ambassador Spector noted the many friends he had made during his five years in Ottawa.

"I am looking forward to representing Canada in Israel," he said, "and looking forward to seeing many of you in Israel."

Among those in attendance were The Hon. Kim Campbell, Minister of Justice, members of parliament from all three political parties, senators, representatives from the Department of External Affairs, Ottawa Mayor Jacques Holzman, and leaders of local and national Jewish organizations.

Ambassador Spector left Ottawa on February 19 to take up his posting in Israel.

Volunteering is a perfectly selfish pastime — just ask the person who becomes a volunteer.

Lending a helping hand to someone who needs it turns out to benefit the helper as much, if not more, than the helpee.

We've all heard it before. And it's true.

This year I made the time — a commodity of which I, like many others, have precious little — to find a moment in my crowded weekly schedule to give to someone else.

What a gift I have given myself!

My charge is a delightful lady whose sight, sadly, is quickly deteriorating. (A fact which allows me to assure her that I look exactly like Elizabeth Taylor — in her thin phase, of course!)

Once a week I belt her into my car and together we hit one of the local fruit and veggie stores with a vengeance, an experience which has introduced me to a whole new spectrum of assorted delicious fresh produce I had no idea existed, complete with cooking instructions from her incredible storehouse of memory.

Or, we ease a drugstore for items such as Cuticura soap which, despite her recently acquired handicap, she can locate in a flash while I'm standing four aisles over combing the area with my still almost 20-20 vision muttering lessee, hmmm, Cuticura, Cuticura — they must be out of it. (Granted the drugstore we choose is one with which she is familiar from her sighted days, but, as I am wont to tell her, 'I just hate it when you're right.')

We have a perfectly wonderful time singing all the golden oldies as we drive around the city attending to our various and sundry tasks.

And we have talked at length and gotten to know each other very well. And I can see that this little aging bundle of dependency, whom I occasionally have to leave leaning on her white cane in the lobby of a shopping mall, with the playful admonition 'don't move and don't talk to strangers!' while I fetch the car, was once a young woman full of life and as independent as I. And that the heart that beats inside her failing body and the soul that resides therein is as young and full of joy as if it were sixteen again when we are together.

And, when we are together, the same is true for me.

Do you have some time, can you make some time for someone else? Call Jewish Family Services at 235-0000. It could well be the best gift you ever gave yourself.

Taking place at Temple Israel

Soviet and World Jewry Shabbat March 7

The community will welcome newcomers to Ottawa from Eastern Europe and the former Soviet Union at the Soviet and World Jewry Shabbat on Saturday, March 7 at Temple Israel at 10:00 a.m.

Sponsored by Jewish Family Services and the Soviet and World Jewry Committee of the Jewish Community Council, the annual program is co-sponsored by a different congregation each year.

Guest speaker Dr. Aurel Braun will address the current situation in the newly formed Confederation of Independent States in an address entitled, "The Gamble: the Status of the Jews in the former Soviet Union."

Dr. Aurel Braun is a professor of international relations and political science at the University of Toronto as well as Soviet Jewry chairperson for B'nai Brith Canada. He has lectured internationally and has received an award for teaching excellence at U. of T.

He is the author and editor/contributor of several books including works on the Gorbachev era and the Middle East in global strategy. He is also a research associate of the University of Toronto Centre for Russian and Eastern European Studies and of its Centre for International Studies.

The Soviet and World Jewry Shabbat will also be highlighted by the participation of former Soviet and Eastern European newcomers to the community who will be called to the Torah and will receive other honors within the Shabbat morning service.

Kiddush will follow the service.

I Await His Coming Every Day

By Rabbi Mordecai Berger
Young Israel

To many people Mashiach is merely a theoretical concept. Indeed, his sudden appearance one day would only rattle the langor of their accustomed routine. Couldn't tomorrow's world have continued like yesterday's? So reads the opening paragraph of a new book translated by Rabbi Eliezer Touger.

The "Mashiach" - the promise of our Jewish prophets, the faith of our fathers, the ultimate destiny awaiting mankind. Throughout the millennia, other religions have usurped this Jewish concept and evolved entire religions upon it. Yet the founders of the concept of Mashiach still await his coming every day.

Unfortunately, many misconceptions have developed around the concept of Mashiach that have confused many Jews and non-Jews alike. I wish to outline a few basic principles that will clarify the Jewish belief in Mashiach.

"Mashiach" is a human being, not an angel or miracle worker. He is faithful to the performance of Torah and Mitzvos and has a direct lineage from King David. Maimonides writes in his Code of Jewish Law, Mishne Torah (Laws of Kings Chapt 11) "Mashiach will be a Jewish leader who will arise and renew the Davidian dynasty." One should not entertain the notion that Mashiach must work miracles and wonders or bring about new phenomena within the world, etc. This is definitely not true and has no connection with the person who is Mashiach.

"If a king (leader) will arise from the House of David who delves deeply into the study of Torah and observes its Mitzvos, and will compel all of Israel to walk in the way of Torah and repair the breaches in its observance, and he will fight the wars of G-d, we may, with assurance consider him Mashiach" (Rambam Hil' M'lachic 11-4). This definition of Mashiach's function is the traditional view expounded by Jewish sources. It is this valiant battle that has been waged by Jewish leaders, against assimilation and for the strengthening of Torah and Jewish identity. Each generation had a singular Jewish leader who had this Messianic potential, unfortunately the generation was not meritorious for his coming.

If the above-mentioned leader succeeds in the above-mentioned functions and builds the Mikdash on its site and gathers in the dispersed remnants of Israel, he is definitely the Mashiach.

In our day and age we are witnessing the miraculous return of the remnants of Israel. However, the job is far from complete. Yet with this definition of who Mashiach is, and what he is to do, we have a clearer understanding of this hallowed Jewish principle of faith.

Mashiach will not be only for the Jewish people, rather his coming will usher in a new era of peace and harmony for all of mankind. Then the entire world will be filled with the knowledge of G-d and sensitivity to His presence.

May we merit his coming, today!

Disenchantment leads cantors to form professional organization

By Debra Nussbaum Cohen
NEW YORK, (JTA) — Cantors unhappy with the liberal trend in the Conservative movement and a shift to the right in the Orthodox community have decided to establish a professional organization they hope will meet their needs better than the existing Orthodox and Conservative associations.

A group of the disaffected cantors met in Toronto during the last week of October and voted 99-3 to create the International Federation of Traditional Cantors.

It is intended to meet the needs of right-wing

Conservative, left-wing Orthodox and non-aligned cantors who are committed to halacha, or traditional Jewish law, but are feeling squeezed out of the various movements.

Upset with decision

One of the group's founders, Cantor A. Eliezer Kirsblum of Toronto, is a former executive committee member of the Cantors Assembly who was upset with the Conservative group's decision earlier this year to admit women who receive cantorial degrees from the Jewish Theological Seminary of America.

But while that decision for Kirsblum was the final move beyond an acceptable level of halachic flexibility, he believes a problematic leftward trend began in the Conservative movement long beforehand.

"There's a disenchantment, to put it mildly, within the Conservative movement about the direction of the seminary within the last decade. They're getting closer and closer aligned to Reform," he said.

"Many of us are becoming isolated within the movement because we don't have a place anymore," he said.

Kirsblum said that at the same time, there is "a move to the right within the Orthodox world. And in the Orthodox camp, very few synagogues are accepting full-time cantors, so many Orthodox cantors have to go into Conservative synagogues."

Needs not being met

The turnout of 102 cantors at the Toronto meeting proves that there are a lot of cantors whose needs are not being met by the Conservative and Orthodox professional associations, he said.

The vote to form the federation followed a two-hour discussion in which leaders from all of the cantorial organizations present participated, said Kirsblum. He said the three dissenting votes came from officers of the Cantors Assembly.

Substantially larger

Kirsblum expects that at least 200 cantors will want to join the new organization once it gets off the ground. That would make it substantially larger than the 128-member Orthodox Cantorial Council of America, which is affiliated with Yeshiva University, and half the size of the Conservative movement's Cantors Assembly.

In addition to strong support from American and Canadian cantors, there is "tremendous response" from England and from Israel, he said. "This convention was a huge success in every respect."

Kiddush to follow services

From Soup to Nuts

By Donna Karlin

If you've never cooked any Oriental dishes and are dying to try — here's your chance! These are fast and easy to prepare and definitely a delight to eat. Why not employ another member of the family to help with the preparations? Food always tastes better to others when they've leant a hand!

Chicken With Pine Nuts

- | | |
|--|--------------------------------------|
| 4 large chicken breast halves, skinned and boned | 1 cup pine nuts, toasted |
| 1 Tbsp. dry sherry | 2 small zucchini, cut in 1/4" pieces |
| 1 Tbsp. light soy sauce | 2 green onions, cut in 1/4" pieces |
| 1 Tbsp. plus 2 tsp. cornstarch | 4 cloves garlic, minced |
| 3 Tbsp. peanut oil | 1 Tbsp. minced orange peel |

Sauce:

- | | |
|-----------------------------|----------------------------|
| 1/4 cup dry sherry | 2 tsp. white vinegar |
| 2 Tbsp. tomato sauce | 1 tsp. Chinese chili sauce |
| 1 Tbsp. Oriental sesame oil | 1/4 tsp. salt |
| 2 tsp. Hoisin sauce | |

Cut chicken into 1/4" cubes. Mix with sherry, soy sauce, 2 tsp. cornstarch and 1 Tbsp. oil. Cover and chill until needed. Combine zucchini and onion and chill until needed. Combine all ingredients for sauce and set aside. Combine remaining cornstarch with equal amount of water. Set aside. Heat 1 Tbsp. oil in wok. Add chicken and stir-fry until it loses its raw colour, 2 minutes. Transfer to heated platter. Add remaining Tbsp. of oil to wok and add garlic and orange peel. Saute a few seconds and add vegetables. Stir fry about 2 minutes. Return chicken to wok and pour in sauce. When sauce comes to a low boil, stir in a little of the cornstarch mixture to glaze the food. Stir in pine nuts. Season to taste. Serves 4.

Ginger Carrots in Foil

- | | |
|--------------------------|----------------------------|
| 1-1/2 lbs. carrots | 1 Tbsp. brown sugar |
| 1" piece fresh ginger OR | Salt |
| 1/2 tsp. ground ginger | 1 Tbsp. unsalted margarine |

Peel carrots and slice on the diagonal into 1/4" thick slices. If using fresh ginger, peel and finely grate to make 1 tsp. In large bowl, combine carrots, ginger, brown sugar and salt to taste. Toss well. Cut 4 sheets of foil 12" x 20". Grease foil with margarine and fold in half. Place 1/4 of carrots on each foil piece and dot with 1 tsp. of margarine. Fold other half over carrots and seal packets well so no steam can escape. Place in baking dish and bake 30 minutes at 375 degrees. Serves 4.

Brown Rice With Nuts and Raisins

- | | |
|--------------------------|-----------------------------------|
| 2-1/2 cups chicken stock | 1/2 cup cashews or sliced almonds |
| 1 cup brown rice | 1/2 cup dark raisins |

In medium saucepan, bring stock to a boil. Add rice, stir once, reduce heat to low, cover and simmer 35 minutes. Remove cover and add nuts and raisins. Replace cover and cook another 10 minutes. Turn off heat and let stand, covered until ready to serve. Serves 4.

'Europa, Europa' writer enraged

German-produced Holocaust film will not be entered for Oscar

By Tom Tugend

LOS ANGELES, (JTA) — Germany has decided not to enter a German-produced Holocaust-theme film, "Europa, Europa," for Academy Award consideration, despite international acclaim for the unusual film about a Jew who survives the war among Nazi army ranks.

The refusal has astonished and enraged the film's writer and director, Agnieszka Holland, as well as the Hollywood movie colony.

"Europa, Europa" is said to be a true story, based on the wartime experiences of Solomon Perel, now 65 and living in Israel.

Perel survived the Holocaust by hiding his Jewish identity in Poland and ended up fighting in the German army and attending an elite school for Hitler Youth. He was saved from being shot by the Soviets after their capture of Berlin by his brother, who spent the war in a Nazi concentration camp.

Holland, a native of Poland whose father is Jewish, shot the film almost entirely in German, with a German producer as well as a mostly German cast and crew.

Academy rules

Under academy rules, it would be up to Germany to enter the film in the Oscar race, but it has not done so, according to reports in The New York Times and the entertainment trade magazine Variety.

The reason, an angry Holland told the Times, is that the Germans "hate this subject, they really hate it."

"I have many German friends, but I was really shocked at how the minds of the people changed after unification," she said. "The arrogance and xenophobia which was hidden is now official.

"I cannot imagine making a movie in Germany," she said. "They felt guilty many, many years after the war, but it was official guilt. The time is over. This generation hates all those people who put them through the official guilt. What is left is arrogance and stupidity. My presence and my cinema is an offense to these people."

The German Export Film Union, whose committee is responsible for selecting its country's entry, said in a statement that no German film in 1991 was good enough to qualify as an Academy Award nominee.

Called 'junk'

An Export Union member was quoted as calling the film "junk" and the union's head described "Europa, Europa" as "an embarrassment."

Orion Classics, the American distributor of the film, has sent letters to academy members urging them, in effect, to take the film out of the foreign-language category and to nominate it in the more prestigious general competition for best picture, director and screenplay.

Wannsee site of memorial to Jews

BONN, (JTA) — At a time when polls show most Germans are eager to forget the past, the government has opened its first national memorial to the Jews murdered by the Nazi regime from 1933 to 1945.

The ceremonies took place in a once posh villa in the suburb of Wannsee on the shores of one of the scenic lakes outside Berlin. The building, on a street called Am Grossen Wannsee, has been renamed Memorial House of the Wannsee Conference.

1/3 cup butter or olive oil	Generous pinch each of oregano and basil
2 onions, finely chopped	1 green pepper, cut into thin strips
1 medium eggplant, peeled and cut into 1/2-inch pieces	2 cups thinly sliced, unpeeled zucchini
2 cloves garlic, crushed	2 lbs. Astro cottage cheese
38-oz. can tomatoes	6 eggs
1 tbsp. sugar	1/3 cup all-purpose flour
1/2 tsp. salt	1/2 cup freshly grated parmesan cheese
	2 cups grated mozzarella cheese

Melt butter in a large wide saucepan. Add onions and eggplant and cook, stirring often, for 5 minutes. Add the garlic, tomatoes with their juice, sugar and seasonings. Break up tomatoes and boil vigorously, uncovered, for 15 minutes to reduce the liquid. Stir often. Add green pepper and zucchini and continue boiling gently for 15 minutes or until almost all the liquid has disappeared. Stir often.

Meanwhile, preheat oven to 350 degrees. Beat cottage cheese with eggs, flour and parmesan until fairly smooth. Spread on the bottom of a 9x13-inch baking dish. Spoon vegetable mixture over top and sprinkle with mozzarella. Bake, uncovered, in preheated oven for 30 to 40 minutes or until browned. Let stand for 5 minutes before cutting.

ISRAEL

Important achievement for Jewish state

China/Israel relations begin at strategic time

By Hugh Orgel
TEL AVIV, (JTA) — China's establishment of full relations with Israel, the culmination of a diplomatic initiative begun more than four decades ago, represents an important achievement for the Jewish state at a strategic moment in its history, political observers say.

The two countries formally established relations at the ambassadorial level in January, when Israeli Foreign Minister David Levy and his Chinese counterpart, Qian Qichen, signed the required protocols at a ceremony in Beijing's elaborate Diaoyutai state guesthouse.

Levy was euphoric as he exchanged Hebrew toasts of L'chayim (To Life) with his host. He told reporters it was a "great honor" to be the first Israeli Cabinet minister ever to visit China officially and be welcomed by the Chinese leadership.

China, the last of the five permanent members of the U.N. Security Council to establish diplomatic ties with Israel, has long had friendly relations with the Arab states.

Qian promised it would use its influence to narrow the gaps between Arabs and Israelis when it entered the Middle East peace process directly for the first time recently as a participant in the multinational conference on regional matters in Moscow.

Israel: an Outsider's Inside View

By Dr. Jonathan Isserlin

The rain keeps pouring down, and immigrants from the Confederation of Independent States, the former Soviet Union, keep pouring in. Both these events are causing significant short term problems while promising major long term benefits. It is perhaps difficult for you in Canada to appreciate either the problems or the benefits. Drought is seldom, if ever, a problem and apart from the occasional political refugee or a boat person or two, immigration could never be conceived at the level that is a reality here.

One must recognize that the level of the Kinneret, the Sea of Galilee, had fallen to a mark so dangerously low that prehistoric villages were uncovered. The main water supply system of the country, the water carriers and coastal aquifers were so low that they were in danger of becoming polluted wholesale with sea water from the Mediterranean. Since the beginning of the rainy season last fall the level of the Kinneret has risen by 165 centimeters despite 750,000 cu. meters being pumped daily from it to the aquifers. That amount has recently even been increased to 1,100,000 cu. meters and still the rain continues and the level rises by 2 cm per day. Snow falls almost daily on the Hermon and much of that will run off into the Kinneret come the spring. Although the problem of chronic water shortage is by no means solved, (there will still have to be a concerted effort at water conservation from now on), it appears that the goal of a full Kinneret (approx. 1.75 more meters), may well be met this year. The current short-term problems of floods in the low-lying areas and overflowing sewers will then, no doubt, be forgotten.

Immigration from the former Soviet Union, despite having slowed down somewhat, continues at a level that would make Canada throw up its hands in horror. So far over 400,000 have been absorbed and hundreds arrive daily. They must all be housed, fed, and (it is to be hoped), found work. They must learn Hebrew and they must learn to fit into a society as unlike what they came from as East is from West. By comparison English and French Canadians are identical twins. To appreciate the problem one must consider that it is the equivalent to Canada taking in almost five million refugees in less than two years. And yet these really are refugees in the most succinct form of the word. The C.I.S. has never been a particularly hospitable haven for the Jews, and with the threat of unrest and strife in many of the republics associated with hunger and hardship, the traditional scapegoat has always been the Jews. Israel does not have the luxury of quotas to fall back on, not that they would want to. It has always been the backbone of the State that it is the right way of every Jew to come to live here.

So there are the two major problems, both of which promise to have major benefits in the long run. The water supplies will be replenished and the country's major resource, Jews, will receive a much needed infusion of new, strong and devoted citizens to counter the much higher birth-rate of our Israeli Arab citizens. But this absorption comes with hefty price tag. It seems incredible to people living here that with the various muslim states of the former Soviet Union exporting nuclear material and bomb-making technology and technologists to places like Iran, Iraq, Lybia and Algeria, with Syria being supplied missiles and military hardware more sophisticated than Saddam Hussein's before (and maybe after) the Gulf War, that the United States and the United Nations can find nothing to criticize except Israel's deportation of 12 terrorist leaders from Yehudah and Shomron and Gaza. It is incredible that not a word is said about the 300,000 Palestinians who have been thrown out of Kuwait for no other crime than they are Palestinians but the U.N. condemns Israel with the collusion of the U.S. Surely the time has come to get these things into perspective and the West to support their only true friend in the area with both words and deeds...and with loan guarantees.

Moderator

Panel series to expose changing role of women

Three generations of Jewish women will participate in a series of panel discussions open to the entire community.

The series, which will be held on Sunday evenings, is entitled "The Role of Women in the Changing Jewish Family: Breaking the Silence."

The Sunday evenings are March 29, April 26, May 31 and June 26. The purpose of the series is to increase awareness of the changes that continue to take place in families and to explore the effects of these changes on women in the Jewish family.

Sylvia Gold, currently Director of Research and Evaluation for the Royal Commission on New Reproductive Technologies and past President and Chief Executive officer of the Canadian Advisory Council on the Status of Women, will moderate the evenings.

Issues such as violence, addiction and economic dependency have been seen as social problems that manifest themselves at all levels of society and are of increasing concern. In keeping with the social action mandate of the Reconstructionist movement, the Ottawa Reconstructionist Hava is organizing this series of talks.

Reconstructionism acknowledges and encourages Jews to live in a secular democratic society as well as the Jewish one. Its followers recognize the need to bring the insights of Jewish tradition to impact upon the problems that the secular society confronts. These include the role of women, racial and social equality, justice, the elimination of poverty and a commitment to the reclamation and preservation of the environment. The Reconstructionist movement's program for social justice - tikkun olam - is based upon Jewish ethics.

The evenings are free and teenagers are particularly encouraged to attend. Tea and coffee will be served. Transportation can be arranged.

Women interested in being panel members or anyone wishing more information should call Barbara Nathan-Marcus at 232-3188 or Walter Hendelman at 235-9414.

ISRAEL

Questions raised

Explanations vary for drop in Soviet aliyah

By Yehonathan Tommer
JERUSALEM, (JTA) — A variety of explanations is being given for the sharp drop in aliyah from the republics that formerly constituted the Soviet Union.

Despite widespread food shortages and a civil war in Georgia, only 6,237 Jews from the former Soviet republics came to Israel in January.

That was the lowest monthly total since February 1990, when 5,746 Soviet Jews arrived in Israel, according to the Soviet Jewish Research Bureau of the National Conference on Soviet Jewry.

Aliyah from all countries totalled 7,375 for January, a 35 percent decline from the month before, when more than 10,000 olim arrived from the former Soviet Union alone.

Still streaming

But even with the decrease, Jews from the former Soviet republics are still streaming into Israel at a rate of well over 1,000 per week. In late January, Israel welcomed the 400,000th Jew to arrive from the former Soviet Union since the massive exodus began in the fall of 1989.

The latest fluctuation, though, has raised questions about whether aliyah has tapered off permanently or has only slowed down temporarily. There is also speculation about whether the dip is caused by the perception of worsening conditions in Israel or expectations of a better life in the newly independent states that were until recently components of an authoritarian superpower.

One explanation was offered by the editor of the Moscow-based Jewish Herald, a bi-weekly that claims a readership of 48,000 in more than 150 cities in the former Soviet empire.

Optimistic about future

In Israel for the fourth International Conference of Jewish Media, Dr. Tankred Golenpolsky told an Israeli newspaper that Jews are not coming because they are optimistic about the future in the Commonwealth of Independent States.

They have received just about everything they had fought for in the old Soviet Union, Golenpolsky said: freedom of movement, independent Jewish schools and the right to partake in Jewish cultural activities.

But Uri Gordon, chairman of the Jewish Agency's Immigration and Absorption Department, maintains aliyah is being deterred and deferred primarily because of Israel's worsening unemployment situation and other absorption difficulties.

Predictably, Likud Knesset member Michael Kleiner, chairman of the Immigration and Absorption Committee, rejects the theory advanced by Gordon, a Laborite, and its implied criticism of the governing party.

The Jewish Agency's deputy spokesman, Yehuda Weintraub, offered a different explanation for January's decline in aliyah.

Jews are delaying their departure because recent legislation recognizing private property throughout the commonwealth enables them to sell their apartments and take the money out of the country, he said.

Another source of delay, according to Weintraub, is the recent establishment of direct flights to Israel.

Many Jews booked on flights departing from transit cities in Eastern Europe are canceling them and rebooking seats on direct flights to Israel from one of the eight departure points in the commonwealth countries, he said.

After these initial dislocations, the aliyah flow is likely to pick up in the next few weeks.

Growing phenomena

Aliyah emissaries in the 11 commonwealth republics are already reporting a growing phenomena of youth aliyah.

Parents, caught between bureaucratic delays in the privatization law and fears of mounting local instability, are sending their teen-age children to Israel now. They plan to join them there later, after selling their properties.

There have been conflicting reports about the aliyah process itself.

According to one source, hundreds of Jews are beginning the process daily by making applications for exit visas to reunite with families in Israel. In the republic of Georgia, which is not a member of the commonwealth, 600 applications were made for exit visas in the past two weeks.

The Interior Ministry in Tbilisi, the Georgian capital, has posted a government official to the local Jewish Agency office to speed up bureaucratic procedures. The Israel Consul in Moscow is sending an official to Georgia to speed up the issuance of visas.

But the Israeli Consulate in Moscow itself reported a drop in visa applications to about 150 a day, compared to more than 1,000 a day earlier in the year.

According to Gordon, the deceleration of aliyah will continue this month.

UIA Leadership Conference set for Feb. 29-Mar. 2

The first-ever United Israel Appeal (UIA) of Canada National Campaign Leadership Conference will take place in Montreal from February 29 - March 2. This weekend conference will bring together, for the first time in Canada, the largest concentration of key campaign leadership drawn from every Jewish Federation whose sole focus will be campaign and its enhancement for the future. Host of the conference is the Montreal Combined Jewish Appeal (CJA) of Allied Jewish Community Services (AJCS).

Under the theme "Individual Strength/Collective Power" conference participants will examine key campaign issues generating timely and successful campaign strategies designed to maximize the efficiency and productivity of the vital upcoming campaigns.

A coterie of eminent Jewish leaders from Israel and the United States will address the conference. They include Mendel Kaplan, a major industrialist and foremost Jewish leader of South Africa, who currently serves as chairman Board of Governors of the Jewish Agency; Moshe Gur, director general of UIA - Keren Hayesod in Israel; Baruch Gur, director general Department of Aliyah and Klitah of the Jewish Agency, and the person responsible for operations in the Commonwealth of Independent States (formerly the Soviet Union) and Eastern Europe; Marvin Lender, national chairman of the United Jewish Appeal and chairman of Aliyah and Klitah Committee of the Jewish Agency; Malcolm Hoenlein, executive director of the Conference of Presidents of Major American Jewish Organizations, the coordinating body on international concerns for almost 60 national Jewish organizations.

Enhancing the comprehensive and exciting program will be special displays of outstanding campaign material, successful and innovative presentations by communities, a guided tour of the Montreal Holocaust Memorial Centre, video presentation, and a reception and dinner featuring a presentation by the March of the Living Choir.

Julia Koschitzky of Toronto, president of United Israel Appeal of Canada, will deliver the closing presentation on "Canada's Role in Meeting the Challenge," Linda Nadolny-Cogan of Ottawa, president of U.I.A. Women's Division, is the chair of the conference.

Purim dinner for Singles

A gala Purim dinner for Jewish singles will be held Thursday, March 19, at 5:00 p.m. at Beth Shalom West Synagogue, 15 Chartwell Avenue.

The evening will feature a catered meal and live entertainment with renowned singer and comedian Chaim Fogelman.

Megilas Esther (Scroll of Esther) will be read. All are invited to participate.

The cost is $18 per person and reservations are required. For more information call the Jewish Youth Library of Ottawa at 729-7712.

Never Ending Miracles: Purim and Pesach

The weak vanquishing the mighty, the few overpowering the many, an individual overcoming disability, disease or poverty - these are the "man bites dog" stories beloved by editors and readers the world over. Turning the tables on adversity is also a major theme of Purim and Pesach.

Thanks to Queen Esther's appeal to King Ahasuerus, Megillat Esther commemorates the successful self-defense uprising of the Persian Jewish community over 2000 years ago against Haman and his well-armed followers.

The Pesach Haggadah recounts a progressively escalating story of slave overcoming master, with God's help.

"It's a miracle!" we say, giving the word 'miracle' a different meaning for each holiday. In both instances the miracle is the never ending one we are honored to participate in, the miracle of Jewish survival.

Two new holiday books personalize the themes of "turning the tables" and "continuing miracles." They happen in small ways as well as large, the authors say, and are always times of joy.

Cakes and Miracles is an exceptional book in every sense of the word. Set in an East European village of the late 1800's just before Purim, the story revolves around Hershel, a high-spirited blind boy and his widowed mother, Basha.

"A person needs eyes," Basha says again and again, refusing her son's offer to help her in the skillful task of shaping dough for hamantaschen and cakes to sell in the market. Because he is blind, she sees him as capable of performing only menial tasks.

"What will we do when mother is too old..." Hershel worries, knowing he has to find a way to earn a living for himself and his mother.

Then a miracle happens that inspires Hershel to express his talents even at the expense of disobeying his mother. The miracle continues when Basha and the villagers change their view of Hershel, recognizing ability rather than disability.

With Purim traditions and customs as both background and foreground, Barbara Diamond Goldin has written a heart-warming, totally believable story of self-discovery and awareness.

Erika Weihs' illustrations are equally good. Using rich muted tones, she lovingly captured the inner spirit and vitality of the village, Hershel and Basha, and their story.

On the surface, Appleblossom appears to be an entertaining early chapter book set in East Europe days before Pesach.

Young Naphtali Ha-Levi finds a stray cat under an apple tree. It's love at first sight. But how can Naphtali keep the cat, whom he's named Appleblossom, when his father is adamantly opposed to cats?

But wait a minute! How does a young talking cat know so much about ancient Egypt, the Haggadah and the Talmud? For that matter, does Naphtali really find this shtetl-wise, eavesdropping stray or does the cat allow himself to be found by this particular boy? And why bring Pesach into the story? Well... Pesach, okay. But why Eliyahu?

Like the Haggadah itself, Oppenheim's story is more than easy entertainment. Climaxing in the miraculous solution to Naphtali's problem during the Seder, the author has written a richly textured fable complex enough to intrigue thoughtful older readers while it captivates younger ones.

Six full-color illustrations delineate the start of each chapter and add a feeling of warmth and place to a deliciously cunning story.

Miracles in everyday life? What do you think?

Camp Massad Manitoba to hold Aug. alumni reunion

To celebrate its 40th summer of camping, Camp Massad (Manitoba) will be holding a reunion for all camp alumni from August 21-23, 1992. Former counsellors, campers and friends of the camp are invited to enjoy a weekend of camp spirit, reminiscing and nostalgia.

The reunion weekend will begin Friday, August 21 at 5:00 p.m. Alumni will be placed in cabins - boys on one side of the camp, girls on the other. The first evening will be a traditional Massad Shabbat, culminating in 'Rikud Am' - Israeli circle dancing.

Saturday will feature Shabbat prayers led by an alumni choir. Following a full day of special programming, the evening will include 'Rikud Zar' - modern dancing - and last-night-of-camp rituals.

After a final brunch on Sunday, alumni will clean out their cabins and say "Lihitra'ot" to Camp Massad.

Arrangements can be made for those alumni not wishing to stay at the camp itself, and for those wishing to attend only part of the reunion. The registration fee of $65 will cover all costs for the weekend. A special, limited-edition reunion sweatshirt will be available at cost.

Alumni are urged to contact the Camp Massad office at (204)943-2815 for registration forms or information. The registration deadline is May 8/92. Out of town alumni may write to: Camp Massad, 25-370 Hargrave Street, Winnipeg MB, R3B 2K1.

Volunteers are also needed for several reunion committees. Those wishing to volunteer are encouraged to contact the camp office.

Rabbi Joel Roth

Shabbaton topics will provide food for thought

Agudath Israel Sisterhood is sponsoring a Shabbaton on the weekend of March 20-22 featuring Rabbi Joel Roth, professor of Talmud and Rabbinics at the Jewish Theological Seminary of America. Rabbi Roth, who hails from Detroit, received his masters degree and rabbinic ordination at the Seminary.

Following his ordination in 1968, Rabbi Roth was appointed to the faculty of the Seminary and continued his studies there until achieving a Ph.D. in Talmud in 1973.

Rabbi Roth has served as dean of students of the Seminary College, was director of the Melton Research Center for Jewish Education, and as associate dean and dean of the Rabbinical School. At present he is serving as chairman of the Committee on Jewish Law and Standards of the Rabbinical Assembly.

As well, Rabbi Roth is the author of many articles for the Law committee and of two columns of Halachic Commentary.

Three lectures will be given over the Shabbaton. On Friday, March 20 at 8:00 p.m. the Oneg Shabbat Lecture will be titled 'Judaism and the Right to Die.'

On Shabbat morning, March 21 at the Sisterhood Shabbat, Rabbi Roth will speak on 'Judaism and Beginning-of-Life Issues.'

And on Sunday, March 22 at the minyan breakfast, the lecture topic will be 'Judaism and Homosexuality.'

The weekend promises to be interesting and thought-provoking. The community is invited to attend.

Grand prize: return trip to Israel

Unique National Gallery tour will launch Women's Bond Drive

Sunny Tavel, chair of Women's Division State of Israel Bonds, has announced that the inaugural event "Bonding with Art" will take place on Thursday, March 12 at 6:30 p.m. at the National Gallery of Canada, 380 Sussex Drive.

Evelyn Schachter, national chair of Women's Division will attend the event which will kick off the 1992 Women's Division Bond Campaign.

The evening, under the chairmanship of Doris Stern, promises to be both educational and stimulating. A tour of art especially tailored by the Education Department of the National Gallery for an informed Jewish audience will leave the front desk promptly at 7:00 p.m. to "discover our heritage".

A Champagne Dessert Reception will follow in Le Cafe des Beaux Arts.

The Grand Door prize of a return ticket to Israel has been donated by the Israel's EL AL airline. The recipient must be in attendance to qualify.

Couvert is $18.00 per person. An investment of a 1992 State of Israel Bond purchase is required.

The guest speaker, Dr. Edna Kott, will address the gathering over dessert. A research scientist and a neurology professor at Tel Aviv University, Dr. Kott is head of the neurology department of Meir Hospital in Kfar-Saba.

Born in Jerusalem, Dr. Kott attended high school in Tel Aviv, served in the Haganah and helped found Kibbutz Tel Katzir on the Syrian border where she served in the military formation "Near Halutzi Lochem," founded by Ben Gurion.

Dr. Kott entered medical school in 1950, and studied in Paris for two years. She completed her studies at Jerusalem's Hebrew University and spent two years at New York's Mount Sinai Hospital, as a visiting professor. Published in numerous academic and scientific journals, Dr. Kott's board specialties are psychiatry and neurology.

Dr. Kott, who has a special interest in both Russian and Ethiopian olim, is eminently qualified to give an overview of the situation in Israel from the perspective of a woman who has given her life to her profession and to her fellow Israelis.

In addition to the Grand Prize, additional door prizes, will be drawn. Winners must be present in order to qualify.

State of Israel Bonds offers securities that pay attractive yields in these times of falling interest rates and provide important benefits not only to Israel, but to the Bond purchasers as well. The 1992 proceeds will be utilized exclusively for immigrant absorption.

The evening promises to be an exciting one. Sunny Tavel, Doris Stern and the Inaugural Committee hope that the attendance will be reflective of the support of women in the Community for the State of

Na'amat stocks selection of cards, plaques

By Kinneret Globerman
Looking for a very special gift to honor a memorable event? Can't seem to find an all-occasion card that's just right for the occasion? On the lookout for some pretty yet practical handy-notes?

Na'amat Canada offers a unique selection of all-occasion cards and certificates. There are baby congratulations, all-purpose cards, sympathy cards and handy-notes. There are certificates and plaques, all of which may be inscribed "in honor of" or "in memory of".

The cards, plaques and certificates not only convey heartfelt wishes but also make for meaningful gifts as they support all of Na'amat's projects in Israel - such as daycare centres (Na'amat provides over 60% of Israel's daycare), vocational training centres, homes for orphaned and traumatized children. Proceeds also help in the settlement of Russian olim.

Na'amat Ottawa has available a variety of cards and certificates with original artwork and handsome design ranging in price from $5 to $1,500. To order call Cynthia Cowan, 596-1755 or Lillian Laks, 820-8373.

Chicago singles host orthodox Shabbaton Mar. 6

The Orthodox Jewish Singles of Chicago are banding together to host an exciting Shabbaton, the weekend of March 6. There will be two separate programs to be run simultaneously, one for those 22 to 32 years of age, and a second for those 28 to 45. (Those 28 to 32 may select the program they prefer.)

Orthodox singles from across the country and Canada are invited to attend. Space is limited to 200 people per program.

North Shore Hilton

The Shabbaton will tentatively take place at the North Shore Hilton (north side of Chicago). The quality programming will include: tours of Chicago landmarks, appealing social activities, well-known Shabbat speakers, and catered meals - all at a reasonable price.

Participants will also have the opportunity to experience Chicago's Jewish life. Chicago has one of the largest Orthodox Jewish communities in the United States, with dozens of kosher establishments, including restaurants, grocery stores, butcher shops, bakeries, and book stores.

Non-for-profit

The Orthodox Jewish Singles of Chicago, a non-for-profit organization, consists exclusively of volunteers, and was formed for the specific purpose of producing this Shabbaton. The Chicago Rabbinical Council is providing operating support.

To receive more information on the Shabbaton, call (312) 588-1600 or write to: Orthodox Jewish Singles, c/o C.R.C., 3525 W. Peterson, Chicago, IL 60659.

Chairpersons planning exciting program

Yom Ha'Atzmaut '92 will have Sephardi flavor

By Estelle Melzer

The Jewish Community Centre is pleased to announce that this year's Yom Ha'Atzmaut celebration, marking the 44th anniversary of the State of Israel, will be chaired by Ellen and Rahamim Fathi and ably assisted by Danielle and Jean Boulakia.

This year's Yom Ha'Atzmaut, which takes place on the evening of May 6, has a special significance. It is the twenty-fifth anniversary of the reunification of Jerusalem. As well, this year also marks the 500th anniversary of one of the most dramatic and tragic events in Jewish history, the expulsion of the Jews from Spain.

Both of the couples organizing this year's Yom Ha'Atzmaut have strong ties to their Sephardi roots as well as to Israel, and are planning a special, exciting celebration with a Sephardi flavor, featuring Sephardi music and food.

Rahamim Fathi was born in Iraq, Baghdad, and immigrated to Israel in 1951 with the great aliyah of the Iraqi community. An Israeli for twenty years, he served in the IDF and fought in the Six-Day War. Since coming to Canada he has been involved in building up a successful taxi business, but has always been very supportive of his wife's many community commitments.

Ellen Fathi has been an indefatigable volunteer in the Ottawa Jewish community for many years. "If you live in a community, you should give in,

Ellen and Rahamim Fathi

Danielle and Jean Boulakia

not just take out," she explains.

Ellen was president of the Machzikei Hadas Sisterhood, and has been on the board of Machzikei Hadas Congregation for many years.

She is the immediate past president of National Council of Jewish Women, a trustee of the Vaad Ha'Ir, a member of the UJA Women's Division cabinet, and on the executive of Israeli Bonds, Women's Division.

She has also worked on the board of Jewish Social Services and chaired its 10th anniversary celebration. Ellen recently became a full-time businesswoman when she opened her store, Warehouse of Fine China.

Strongly Zionist, Ellen and Rahamim make frequent trips to Israel with their children, Michael and Tamara.

Danielle and Jean David Boulakia were both born in Tunis, Tunisia and came to Ottawa in 1973.

Danielle, who has a BA and MA in French literature, is presently teaching French at Hillel Academy.

Jean, who has Doctorates in economics and in law, has taught economics in Paris, Montreal, Kingston and New Orleans. He is now a federal public servant.

Jean and Danielle have been active in promoting the Sephardi culture for many years. In 1965, Jean was vice-president of the first Sephardi Association in Canada, the Association Sepharade Francophone, in Montreal. In 1989, he was the founder and first president of the Sephardi Association of Ottawa. Presently, he is past president of the SAO and a member of the Community Relations Committee of the Vaad Ha'Ir.

Danielle, meanwhile, is first president of the sisterhood of the Sephardi Association of Ottawa.

The Boulakias and their three teenagers, Charles, Sophie and Jonathan, are strongly Zionist and visit Israel as often as possible.

Both couples see Yom Ha'Atzmaut as "an opportunity to celebrate the unity of the Jewish people, Sephardi and Ashkenazi, Jews of the Diaspora and Israelis, all united in their love of Israel and the Torah."

Their hope is that "all the Jewish community of Ottawa will come and participate in this event, and that we shall always be able to celebrate, free, strong and united, in peace, the day of independence of Israel."

Akela...They Do Their Best

The 39th Henry "Hank" Torontow Pack under the guidance of Howard Osterer ("Akela") has achieved yet another first. During this Heart and Stroke Month, a program of CPR (Cardio-Pulmonary Resuscitation) was initiated for Cubs and their parents. The eight to ten-year-old kids, in conjunction with their parents, learned how to identify crisis situations, call 911, learned the difference between a heart attack and a cardiac arrest and where capable, how to use CPR. The Cub Pack impressed both the members of the Ontario Heart Foundation and Scouts Canada who were in attendance at the program. The program was the first time that parents and children went through this type of learning experience together.

As if saving lives was not enough, the 39th Henry "Hank" Torontow Pack also recently sponsored a Kub Kar Rally at the Jewish Community Campus and featured a giant "recycled" car constructed of more than 4,500 empty film canisters collected from Blacks Camera Stores. The whole event was written up in The Leader, a national Scouting magazine. Our community is extremely proud of the achievements of these young people and we wish them continued success.

Chicago

And they say past-presidents never die, they just become Hollywood producers. Ralph Kassie, past JCC president, has found many ways to continue to contribute to the programming of the Centre, not the least of which is his work together with Robert Gould on the upcoming teen play, Chicago. Ralph assures me that the play is extraordinary and that the twenty-five teens on stage and more than ten off stage are working extremely hard, rehearsing three days a week, in order to stage what will be the best teen play to date. They are still looking for volunteers, so if you have interest or some experience working with props, sewing and/or carpentry — they still need people to help out.

Talented teens heat up Chicago!

By Estelle Melzer

While most of us are cocooning through the winter and dreaming of spring, 25 talented teens are eagerly braving the cold three nights a week to attend rehearsals for JCC Theatreworks' production of Chicago. Chicago will be presented at Centrepointe Theatre on May 13 and 14.

These teens, aged 14 to 19, spend a minimum of nine hours a week — the time will increase significantly in April — in intensive practice sessions at Agudath Israel Synagogue, and are loving every minute of it.

"The esprit de corps increases at each rehearsal," comments executive co-producer Ralph Kassie. All the kids feel they're with a winner.

The production staff is also very excited about how the rehearsals are shaping up. The consensus is that this ensemble is one of the finest that they have ever worked with.

Some of the teens in the cast are veterans with lots of theatre experience, including participation in previous JCC Theatreworks productions.

Others are totally new faces.

Individually, each youngster is talented and full of potential. As a group, these teens are working together with tremendous enthusiasm and dedication and are learning and growing at each rehearsal.

"On opening night," Ralph Kassie believes, "these kids are going to blow you away."

JCC Theatreworks was launched five years ago by the Jewish Community Centre to serve as a focus for generating enthusiasm and community involvement among Ottawa's Jewish teens.

Excellence and quality

From the beginning, the philosophy was to strive for the highest degree of excellence and quality — to create something teens would feel proud to be part of. Therefore, the JCC has always tried to recruit the most experienced and talented production staff possible.

This year is no exception. Producer Morris Neuman, while new to JCC Theatreworks, has had extensive theatre experience.

Director Jeff Kanter, Musical Director Drummond Hudson and Accompanist Frank Burke are all JCC Theatreworks veterans who need no introduction to Ottawa audiences. They have been involved in the Ottawa theatre and music scene for many years, and bring a wealth of experience to this production.

Choreographer Debbie Jones is a veteran of many Orpheus productions, and is ably assisted by Gayle Brennan. The choreography of Chicago, which was created by Bob Fosse, is a particularly exciting feature of this play.

This year the stage manager is a community teen. Stacey Carol is a senior at Canterbury High School who is studying stage management as part of her drama program.

Overseeing the entire production and making sure that the money keeps flowing are Co-Executive Producers Ralph Kassie and Robert Gould.

Volunteers are still needed to round out the production staff. Anyone interested in working as stage crew, carpenter or seamstress is asked to call Diane at the JCC, 238-1818.

Tickets for Chicago will go on sale in March on a reserved-seating basis. This year a new patron class will be introduced. For $36.00, you receive preferred seating, a tax receipt for the amount above the ticket cost and the satisfaction of being an "angel" who supports the efforts and commitment of our community's teens.

COURSES

I. GETTING MARRIED, STAYING MARRIED

A Special Workshop

For Couples Planning to Marry and Couples Wanting to Improve Their Marriage
Mondays, March 23 and 30; April 6

Learn to...explore the expectations and realities of marriage, communicate clearly with your partner, express needs without manipulation, resolve conflicts and negotiate compromise, and examine marital ethics from a Jewish perspective.

Instructors: Dov Vinograd/Rabbi Dr. Reuven P. Bulka

II. A JEWISH HERITAGE REDISCOVERED: THE CASE OF THE SEPHARADES

TUESDAYS, March 24 and 31, April 7

This course, consisting of three sessions, will cover: i. Jewish educational patterns in Morocco — from traditions to modernization; ii. The story of the Sephardes and the Marranos (the secret Jews), 1492-1992; iii. Beyond Yehuda Halevi — a sampling of current Sephardi literature and a discussion of future prospects.

Instructor: Marc Eliany

III. INTRODUCTION TO HEBREW CALLIGRAPHY

An introduction to Hebrew calligraphy will include a discussion of Ketubas, illumination and scroll. Learn several Hebrew scripts and various pen techniques. Elements of layout and design for poems, envelopes, and invitations will be illustrated. Supplies, if required, may be purchased at the first class.

Instructor: Beverley Gershkovitch

IV. TRADITIONAL JEWISH PRAYER: A NEW APPRECIATION

THURSDAYS, March 26, April 2 and 9

A graphic presentation of Jewish liturgy designed to be illuminating to anyone interested in the synagogue — the neophyte to the seasoned worshipper. Through the use of unique visual aids, the brilliant (the little-known) patterns and ideas of the Hebrew prayer book come alive.

Instructor: Daniel Friedman

V. UNDERSTANDING THE PASSOVER SEDER

THURSDAYS, March 26, April 2 and 9

This three-session course will help enrich your Seder experience this year. Session 1 will cover how to prepare for the Seder and discuss the laws and symbols of the Seder. Session 2 will focus on the laws and customs of the Seder. The final session will give an explanation of the Haggadah and offer an analysis of its key prayers and their melodies.

Instructor: Rabbi Howard Finkelstein

FACULTY

Rabbi Reuven P. Bulka, spiritual leader of Machzikei Hadas Synagogue, is the author of numerous books on Judaism and Jewish issues. He has a PhD degree in psychology and is the founder and editor of the Journal of Psychology and Judaism. He is also a member of the editorial boards of various journals, including Tradition. He served as chairman of the Rabbinical Council of America Family and Marriage Committee.

Marc Eliany, a Moroccan-born social researcher living in Ottawa, is one of the Sepharade '92 organizers. He is presently managing Canada Drug Strategy Research and writing fiction on the Jews of North Africa.

Rabbi Howard M. Finkelstein is the spiritual leader of Beth Shalom West Synagogue. He has a BA and MS from Yeshiva University, from which he also received his ordination. He also has an MA in Education from New York University. He served as rabbi of the Beth Israel Congregation of Kingston, Ontario for many years.

Daniel Friedman, a Jewish educator for over twenty-five years, is a recent past co-director of the Archaeological Seminar in Jerusalem and a licensed Israel tour guide. Currently, he is the executive director and associate cantor of the Agudath Israel congregation.

Beverley Gershkovitch has been a calligraphy instructor for the past twelve years at Nepean Visual Arts Centre, Algonquin College and the Ottawa Board of Education. She has had experience in scripting Ketubas, certificates and citations and has done commissioned work for the Senate, the House of Commons and Government House. She is a founding member of the Ottawa Calligraphy Society. In her "other life," Bev is a senior speech pathologist at the Children's Hospital of Eastern Ontario.

Dr. Dov Vinograd, a licensed clinical psychologist, operates an independent psychotherapy practice and has more than twenty years of experience working with couples. He was trained at the University of Ottawa and the University of Michigan Medical Centre. He taught psychology at the University of Ottawa for fourteen years.

W1310 staff taught to save "Annie's" life

The staff of radio station W1310 participated in a CPR course taught by Albert Guité the JCC's Physical Education and Health Director. The radio station staff were taught the simple skills necessary to help someone who has stopped breathing, whose heart has stopped beating, or who is choking.

With the use of a teaching manikin named "Annie", the participants were able to simulate and learn proper mouth-to-mouth breathing techniques and proper cardiac compressions for someone with no pulse. The group also learned how to effectively apply the Heimlich manoeuvre for someone who is choking.

The wild and zany group from W1310 made the course very interesting and fun. Many thanks to Perry Medico from W1310 for doing a great job organizing the course for his co-workers.

Men's Basketball League

The Scoop on the Hoops

By Albert Guité

The WHITE team's dominance in the Jewish Men's Basketball League continues. With a twenty-point victory over GREEN, Saul Markman had a terrific game scoring fourteen points for the WHITE team. Even though the WHITE team was down by eight points at the half against GOLD, it managed to score an incredible fifty-four points in the second half to win the game.

With the temporary addition of Joe Levitan, another three-point shooter, to the WHITE team, the WHITE team scored on average one-third of its points on three-point shots! With too many good outside shooters on the WHITE team, the much-travelled Joe Levitan has found a new home on the PURPLE team.

Both the RED and GREEN teams are battling for second position. The scoring punch of Eric Glube has kept the RED team in second place. The father and son duo of Norm and Eric Glube scored one-third of their team's points against BLUE. Both Gerry Ostroff and Mark Groper also had a big game, scoring twenty-three and seventeen points respectively. Although the GREEN team lost to WHITE, Rich Pearl (fifteen points) and Marc Cantor (twenty-three points) both had an outstanding game. Without the services of Carey Stevens, Mike Kronik, and Howard Krebs, the BLUE team played exceptionally well in a losing cause to GREEN. The BLUE team was down twenty points to nothing before sinking its first basket. The end result was only a seven-point win for GREEN.

Offer Vardi had his best game of his rookie year, scoring nineteen points and stealing six times for a great defensive effort. Seth Boro also helped to pick up the slack by contributing twenty-one points.

In the best game of the year, the BLUE and RED team kept changing leads throughout the game, but even Mike Kronik's twenty-six point game couldn't help in the 78 to 73 win for RED. With a league season high scoring of forty-two points, Bill Holzman's PURPLE team couldn't pull it off in a six-point loss to GOLD. The scorekeeper needed two player boxes to keep track of Bill's performance! Although two straight losses hasn't discouraged the PURPLE team, the help of outside shooter Joe Levitan should bring a new dimension to this team.

The high-strung and emotional GOLD team is starting to click as a unit. Mark Kantor scored twenty points in GOLD's win over PURPLE — its second win of the season. Stewart Berson has also showed some offensive threat lately by being more confident and shooting well from the outside. There have been very few blow-outs in the JMBL lately — and with the playoffs quickly approaching, games should become even tighter and more interesting.

Nothing should be put on hold

Pressure is vital to day school funding issue

The fight by Canadian Jewish Congress to obtain provincial funding of Ontario Jewish day schools entered the courts on January 27. But Bernie Farber, the man who has spearheaded the campaign, says that only by placing public pressure directly on the Premier will this Charter-testing case be prevented from taking years to be heard by the Supreme Court.

"Nothing stops us from being as assertive as possible. Nothing should be put on hold," Farber said of the campaign to help direct Jewish parents' tax dollars towards their children's education which is now eight years old.

Religious discrimination

"This is a constitutional case. The funding of one religious group to the exclusion of all others is state-sponsored religious discrimination," Farber told a community meeting in Ottawa February 5.

Farber, the National Associate Director of Community Relations, Canadian Jewish Congress spoke to concerned members of the community at a meeting at Agudath Israel Synagogue. The meeting was attended by about 65 people including members of the Ottawa Talmud Torah Board, Ecole Maimonides Board, Hillel Academy P.T.A., representatives from the Jewish Community Council, parents from both day schools and concerned community members.

The event was covered by both Ottawa newspapers and CJOH-TV.

Dr. Paul Claman representing the Board of Ecole Maimonides and Arnie Vered, Ottawa Talmud Torah

Board president, told the gathering that the city's two day schools are under increasing financial pressure. Provincial funding for the secular portion of studies would alleviate the burden.

Ontario is the only province in Canada which does not provide any funding to Jewish day schools. The only funding provided is for Heritage Language programs run after the regular school day. Seventy countries in the world including 10 states in the United States provide funding to alternative religious schools.

Farber said the current economic crunch is pressuring Jewish communities to decide how best "to divide one dollar one thousand ways. And as important as Jewish education is, it is not always going to get the same kind of look-see that it got in the past."

"My fear is that potentially the day school system could become elitist. We're proud of the fact that no Jewish child in Ontario has had to go without a day school education because of lack of money. How much longer we can do that is unclear."

May hearing

The case is scheduled to be heard by the general court division in May. Farber said that at this stage only Premier Bob Rae has the power to push forward the case of Canadian Jewish Congress vs the Province of Ontario to the Ontario Court of Appeal. Otherwise, there will be a two year wait before the case proceeds, followed by an expected two year wait before proceeding to the Supreme Court of Canada.

About 150 parents in Toronto have recently started a letter writing campaign to the Premier, calling themselves Families for Religious Equality in Education. The group hopes that day school parents in Ottawa and other Ontario cities will also help to pick this case, Farber said.

CJC's Bernie Farber speaking to the meeting.

It is clearly NDP policy to fund only public and separate schools, Farber said. "Premier Rae has stated that there will never be any money for Jewish or other (non-Catholic) Christian schools."

The issue of providing provincially-funded home care support services in Jewish day schools is "the easiest part" of the case and may be resolved "before the beginning of the next school year" because it has been approved in principle by the Management Board of Cabinet. These medical support services fall under the Ministry of Health. Funding for the secular portion of the day school curriculum falls under the Ministry of Education.

"There is supposed to be a universal health care system. There is agreement by the province that this is unjustified discrimination," Farber said. Children who require medical care during school hours while attending Jewish day schools now have to travel to hospitals to receive treatment while children in public and Roman Catholic separate schools are treated by visiting health care workers.

Canadian Jewish Congress does not see the court battle as solely representing Jewish interests. "In no way should this be seen as a Jewish issue," Farber said.

Its partners in the case are the Ontario Alliance of Christian Schools. Six other groups, with interests pro and con, attempted to participate in the lawsuit. Judgement was released February 5 on the intervenors. Farber explained that the Ontario Multi-Faith Coalition for Equity in Education and a retired United Church Minister were excluded.

Opposing view

The Canadian Civil Liberties Association, which opposes funding to Jewish and other alternative religious schools because they say it will destroy the public school system, and the Ontario Federation of Independent Schools will participate as "friends of the court" able to provide written briefs but not submit evidence.

The Ontario Public School Trustees Association may provide information only on matters affecting its members. The Metro Toronto Public School Board, which opposes the Congress action, will participate in the trial in May but its submission must be limited to the question of whether any infringement of the religious schools' rights is justified as a reasonable limit in a democratic society.

Nancy Leibovitch is chairing the 1992 fundraiser, the proceeds of which will go to Na'amah day-care centres, day-night homes and educational programmes in Israel. The impressive list includes wines from Italy, France, California and Israel, most of which are unavailable at the local L.C.B.O.

Anyone interested in ordering wines or obtaining a wine list should contact Nancy Leibovitch at 820-2198 or Linda Laks at 825-2871. Deadline for orders is March 16.

BB delegation urges positive U.S. action

A high-level delegation from B'nai Brith Canada's Institute for International Affairs has met with US Deputy Ambassador Todd Stewart and Minister-Counselor for Political Affairs Stephen Buck at the US Embassy in Ottawa. The delegation urged positive US action on loan guarantees for Israel and asked that the officials transmit to the US Justice Department and to the Executive Branch B'nai Brith's concern over the ongoing imprisonment of Jonathan Pollard, a US citizen convicted of spying for Israel.

The delegation argued that the extension of loan guarantees was the completion of the rescue of Soviet Jews, a humanitarian process in which the US was the key player. Acknowledging the gratitude of world Jewry to the US for its efforts in this area, the delegation pointed out that the extension of loan guarantees would permit the resettlement in Israel of the thousands of Soviet Jews arriving monthly while resulting in considerable economic benefit to the US as well.

The delegation's request regarding Jonathan Pollard was to commute his sentence to time already served.

The delegation also shared its thoughts on various aspects of the current Middle East peace process and on the plight of Syria's captive Jewish community.

Leading the B'nai Brith delegation was National President Marilyn Weinberg. She was accompanied by Institute Chair Brian Morris, Past National President Moishe Smith, Executive Vice President Frank Dimant, Institute Director Paul Marcus and Government Relations Director Ian J. Kagedan.

MDA honors Zelikovitz family for their gift of an ambulance

By Joy Eskin Moskovic

Many Israeli lives will be saved through the generosity of Ottawa's Zelikovitz family. At a brief ceremony held recently at the residence of Israeli ambassador to Canada, the family was honored by Canadian Magen David Adom for Israel.

The donation of an ambulance by Max and the late David Zelikovitz, Marlene Burack and Judith Schneiderman will provide transportation for Israelis who need medical treatment as quickly as possible. The family was presented with the Pikuach Nefesh Award by the National President of Canadian Magen David Adom for Israel Irwin Beutel, in grateful recognition of their efforts.

As Iraq's SCUD missiles bombarded Greater Tel Aviv and the coastal areas last year, Magen David Adom's ambulances - many of them donated by North American Jews - were first to the scene, transporting and aiding victims.

Ambassador Itzhak Shelef called Max Zelikovitz "a giver with a heart".

He pointed out that the organization's motto is "whoever has saved a life has saved the whole world" and, noted that the Zelikovitz family had used their own simcha - the Bat Mitzvah of a granddaughter, Gail Kardish, the daughter of Margo and David Kardish - to continue to help others.

Magen David Adom was founded in 1930 as a First Aid Society for the city of Tel Aviv, and became the first medical service of the Haganah, serving alongside the fighters during the 1930s and 40s. Magen David Adom became Israel's National Red Cross Society in 1950 by the Knesset. It provides life-saving and health-giving services for Israel's entire population, and also supports a network of sophisticated health services, such as first aid stations, blood services and a training school. Additionally, it has established a Mobile National Rescue Unit to deal with national emergencies, such as natural disasters, terrorist attacks and war.

The organization has also

developed an emergency telephone system. The telephones are situated at one mile intervals along Israel's highways, providing immediate contact with Magen David Adom's control centres.

Magen David Adom's services are open to all Israelis, without regard to race, religion or ethnic affiliation.

To millions of Israelis, Magen David Adom represents a helping hand in time of crises. Its red shield of David is the universal symbol of mercy and compassion to men and women in sickness and danger.

The Zelikovitz ambulance will join Magen David Adom's fleet of more than 650 vehicles, which includes Standard Ambulances, two types of Mobile Intensive Care Units for the treatment of heart attacks and serious trauma and also neonatal units for the transfer of premature high-risk newborns, Mobile Field First-Aid Units for mass disasters, and bloodmobiles, which collect blood donations and transfer them to Magen David Adom's Blood Services Centre.

Dr. Maureen Molot, president of Ottawa's Vaad Ha'R, brought greetings to the Zelikovitz family on behalf of the Jewish community.

Present for the special occasion were Shirley Moscovitch, national executive director, Montreal; Pamel Miller, co-chair Ottawa Chapter, with his daughter Avis; Norma Rothman, member of the executive; and Miriam Algom, treasurer, Ottawa Chapter.

Following the formal presentation, the guests enjoyed refreshments and warm hospitality.

For sale: fresh baked and kosher hamantaschen

What's synonymous with Purim and poppyseed? Why Purim of course. And the Mollie Betcherman chapter of Hadassah-WIZO is synonymous with hamantaschen.

Co-chairs Joy Ostrega and Karen Fogel have announced that orders are currently being accepted for this year's hamantaschen sale.

"Last year's sale was so successful," said Joy, "that demand exceeded quantities baked. If you don't want to be disappointed I would suggest that you call early."

Orders, at $8.00 per dozen, can be placed by calling Lyna Lubelski at 226-3365 until Friday March 6. All baking will take place at the Jewish Community Centre.

Proceeds from the event go to support Hadassah-WIZO projects in Israel.

JCC looking to form Jewish artists guild

Attention artists and artisans (both professional and hobbyists)! The Jewish Community Centre is hoping to form a Jewish artists' guild - a place to come, to learn, to teach, to share ideas. The idea is new and still wide open. A preliminary meeting and brainstorming session will be held on Tuesday, March 3 at 7:45 p.m. at 881 Broadview Ave. to discuss what direction the guild should take.

If you are interested in attending this meeting, call either Diane Porish at the J.C.C. (238-1818) or Avril Bright (729-9590).

Earn Heart and Stroke Foundation certification

Osterer's JCC Scout Pack learns CPR techniques

By Estelle Melzer

An innovative co-operative program between the Jewish Community Centre's Health and Physical Education Department, and the JCC's Jewish scout troops has given new meaning to the scout motto, "Be Prepared."

Over the last three weeks, youngsters from the 39th Henry "Hank" Toronto Cub Pack have been learning CPR and First Aid. This program will enable them to be prepared and able to help in the crucial but all too common emergency in which someone's heart or breathing has stopped.

Forty-five boys and girls, aged eight to ten, each working in partnership with a parent, have been taught how to identify a heart attack victim and how to apply the cardio-pulmonary resuscitation technique, in order to keep that person alive until help arrives.

The program was the brain child of Howard Osterer, Akela (director) of the 39th Cub Pack who believed, despite the skepticism of other Scout Canada officers, that this age group has the physical capabilities and mental concentration to learn CPR.

The program was co-ordinated by the JCC's Health and Physical Education Director Albert Guité and taught by eleven certified CPR instructors from the Heart and Stroke Foundation of Ontario.

Albert and the teachers were amazed at the learning abilities of the children, most of whom worked very hard to grasp the techniques. The help of their parents, who worked along with them to learn CPR, was invaluable in making this program work.

Youngsters who pass all the components of the program will get an official CPR Heart-saver certification card from the Heart and Stroke Foundation of Ontario, as will, of course, all parents who pass the program.

All cub leaders have, of course, also achieved certification, in line with the JCC's belief that anyone working with children in their programs should have this training.

Those cubs who are, at this stage in their development, unable to achieve certification will receive a Level E participation card.

Albert Guité, after seeing the program in action, concluded that participation is very worthwhile for any youngster. "At the very least," he pointed out, "it gives him the ability to identify the signs and symptoms of a heart attack and immediately call 911. That alone could save someone's life."

Representatives of the Heart and Stroke Foundation came to observe the program and were also amazed by the capabilities of youngsters of this age. (Some provinces do not target programs to youth under the age of 16.)

Scout Canada officials were on hand to witness the program and evaluate the feasibility of making it an official badge program. (The third session of the program, devoted to First Aid instruction, qualifies cubs for the Scout Canada First Aid badge.)

This ground-breaking program took place because of the commitment and conviction of one man, Howard Osterer, who has been tireless in looking for new challenges and experiences for the 39th.

Howard was also the person responsible for introducing a co-ed scouting program this September. The JCC's scout program is one of the very few in Canada that integrates boys and girls.

Because of Howard's belief in the abilities of "his" kids, over 90 people in our community are better prepared to save a heart. Hats off to Howie, the fellow with a very big heart.

Bernie Gold and his son Adam learn CPR together, in a unique program of the 39th Henry "Hank" Toronto Cub Pack. The cubs, aged 8 to 10, are believed to be one of the youngest groups in Canada receiving CPR training.

Prof. Irwin Cotler

Hebrew U. will honor Cotler

Internationally renowned human rights activist Irwin Cotler, a professor of law at McGill University, will receive an honorary doctorate from the Hebrew University of Jerusalem at its June convocation.

The senate of the Hebrew University decided to honor Cotler as a tribute to his championship of human rights around the world and his special efforts against discrimination and oppression of Jews and the Jewish people. The senate also acknowledged Cotler's "longstanding friendship" with the university.

The convocation will be held during the Hebrew University's annual board of governors meetings June 14 to 18. During that same week, the university will confer honorary fellowships on Toronto developer Louis Frieberg and Calgary entrepreneur Maurice Paperny.

Netherlands memorial to Dutch Jews being planned

As of November 1, 1991, a national campaign will be launched to collect contributions for a memorial to the 102,000, mostly Jewish, victims who passed through the Westerbork Transit Camp and perished in the German concentration camps.

The memorial will consist of a field of 102,000 plain bricks, to be a lasting memento to each victim. These bricks shall be nameless, because nameless they succumbed.

Every Canadian, and especially those of Dutch origin or with ties to the Netherlands, will be invited to purchase one or more bricks at $10.00 each to commemorate the loss of a loved one, a family with whom he/she was friendly, a classmate from school or people who may have lived on the same street or shared the same place of work.

Cheques should be made out to Westerbork 102,000 and mailed to Westerbork 102,000, c/o ABN/AMRO BANK, P.O. Box 55, Toronto Dominion Centre, Toronto, Ontario. M5K 1E7.

Ottawans responded well to '92 JNF Telethon

The Jewish National Fund recently conducted a very successful Tu Bi Shevat Telethon.

Under the chairmanship of Beverly Swedko, over 40 volunteers called upon most households in Ottawa to plant trees in celebration of the holiday of Tu Bi Shevat, "The New Year of the Trees".

The Telethon was held at the offices of Mastercraft Development Corporation. His Excellency, Itzhak Shelef, ambassador of Israel to Canada, dropped in during one of the phoning shifts to offer words of encouragement and support.

The funds raised from this Telethon will be used in Israel. Since the beginning of the century, the Jewish National Fund has been responsible for redeeming and beautifying the land for the Jewish people.

As JNF celebrates 90 years of achievement, it is involved in assisting in the absorption of thousands of immigrants by developing the state's infrastructure for new housing, water resources and the blazing of new roads.

Coming decade

In addition to immigrant absorption, JNF is directing its energies to several plans for the coming decade. Afforestation, water conservation, creation of water reservoirs, the improvement of the underground water table, the prevention of erosion and the reclamation of land will all be priorities in the vital work of the JNF in the 90's.

These projects require funds and in part are financed by Jews from around the world. JNF fundraisers, in the form of

His Excellency Itzhak Shelef, ambassador of Israel to Canada, greets Henry Molot, acting chairman JNF, at the Tu Bi Shevat Telethon.

Tu Bi Shevat Telethons, Negev Dinners, Blue Boxes, and the planting of trees on a daily basis, provide some of the much needed money to continue this very important work.

For further information on the JNF and for the planting of trees call the JNF office at 230-9047.

Yiddishists can apply for summer internship

AMHERST, MA — The National Yiddish Book Center has announced the availability of paid internships for college students during the summer of 1992.

The seven-week program — slated to run from June 1 - July 17 — will offer a unique combination of academic learning and hands-on work experience, providing undergraduate students with an excellent introduction to Yiddish language, literature and culture.

Participants will receive a fellowship of $1,500, plus an allowance of $100 per week for room and board.

The program is expected to be extremely demanding, both physically and intellectually.

Since the National Yiddish Book Center has openings for just eight students, the application process is expected to be highly competitive. All full-time undergraduate students are eligible to apply; no prior knowledge of Yiddish is required. The deadline for applications is April 3.

Interested students should contact Jocelyn de Piolenc, National Yiddish Book Center, Old East Street School, Amherst, MA 01002; Phone: 413/256-1241; Fax: 413/253-4261.

Tamir is a non-profit corporation, organized to provide safe, supervised housing for developmentally handicapped adults in a Jewish environment.

Panel will deal with children and Holocaust

Many Jewish families are not touched by the Holocaust but for those who had a parent, aunt, uncle or grandparent survive the horrors of Nazi occupation there are questions central to their lives.

How do we begin to tell our children of this legacy?

Will he/she not become ashamed of his/her Jewishness? Is it fair to expose children to these traumas?

At what age do you begin to speak; how much do you tell?

These are some of the problems which will be addressed by a panel discussion on "Talking to Children about the Holocaust" sponsored by the Ottawa Children of Holocaust Survivors group and Jewish Social Services on Thursday, March 12, at 8:00 p.m. in the small chapel of Agudath Israel, 1400 Coldrey Avenue.

Panelists will include psychologist Dr. Rena Boroway, psychiatrist Dr. Richard Levine, Auschwitz survivor David Shentow and participant in the 1990 March of the Living, Michal Krakower.

For more information contact co-ordinator Sylvia Greenspoon at 232-4188. All are welcome to come and share their views.

A GIFT
 FOREVER

The Legacy That Gives Forever After

By Ruvin Geller

Have you ever thought of making a charitable donation to our community through a life insurance policy?

Here are some reasons why you should buy charitable gifts:

- 1) to guard both the charity and donor against economic reversals or loss of benefactor interest;
- 2) to create a permanent endowment that gives forever after the benefactor's death;
- 3) to provide financial stability at the charity for the day when the future becomes now;
- 4) to magnify the contribution to the chosen charity far beyond the level of equal cash donations. The tax savings have an additional multiplier effect on the donor's real dollar contribution.

IF the chosen charity is the owner of the policy and you pay the premiums, you can claim these premiums as charitable donations at tax time.

IF you own the policy and the chosen charity is the beneficiary, upon your death, the Death Benefit becomes a tax deduction to your estate.

IF a 35 year old donated $1,000/year for the rest of his life, he'd be donating on average $35,000 - $45,000. But if he took out a Life Insurance policy for $100,000 and paid, say, $2,300/year for only two years, he'd have a fully paid up life insurance policy worth a minimum of $100,000 which would be payable to his chosen charity upon his death. Think of it! A $100,000 donation for only $4,600. There are many types of plans available. Some costing a lot less, some costing more. Speak to your life insurance agent for more information. Life insurance rates are based on health and age. The time to do something is now — while you're still young and healthy.

Jewish book catalogue covers the gamut

PITTSBURGH, PA. — The most comprehensive Jewish book catalogue to date has been published here recently and is being distributed across the country and abroad.

The catalogue, called 1-800-JUDAISM, contains over 1500 titles and is put out by U.S. Judaica, Inc., the new mail order division of Piskers Judaica Center of Pittsburgh.

The 80-page catalogue covers the gamut of Jewish books from newly published works on contemporary subjects through the Jewish classics.

The catalogue is carefully structured according to subject area. Sections include Basic Judaism, Bible and Talmudic Studies, Jewish Observance, Family Life, Cookbooks and Kashrut, Jewish Thought, Hebrew and Yiddish Languages, Jewish Literature and Folklore, Israel, the Holocaust, Jewish History and more.

Also included are 15 pages of children's and youth titles, gift books and books in large print.

"The catalogue was designed to give readers a sense of browsing through a well-stocked Jewish bookstore," says Brad Perelman, owner and originator of the catalogue. "We strove to make it more comprehensive than anything currently available."

Aside from the 1500 titles in the catalogue, there are thousands of additional titles in the catalogue's data base, he explains. "Anyone anywhere can phone 1-800-JUDAISM with a Jewish book title or author and we'll most likely be able to fill the order."

The catalogue's publishing comes at a time when the Jewish book industry is flourishing. Hundreds of thousands of American Jews are striving to learn more about their heritage. Many have taken to reading. Classic and religious Hebrew texts, once inaccessible to the public because of language and style barriers, are being translated into modern English.

The idea for the catalogue crystallized in Perelman's mind following inquiries on Jewish books by scores of out-of-town visitors to Piskers.

"The people were amazed at the number of titles they found at Piskers and yet they felt frustrated because there was no Jewish bookstore in their area," Perelman says.

A special effort was made to make the catalogue graphically appealing and easy to use. Its full-color cover is an original, commissioned work by noted Jewish illustrator Ilene Winn Lederer. It depicts Jewish books as the protective walls of Jerusalem.

Some 60,000 catalogues are in the process of being shipped out to addresses across the

Miami Beach Holocaust Memorial

Miami Beach, Florida, is a community with one of the largest Holocaust survivor populations in the world. In 1986 a permanent Holocaust Memorial was begun on Dade Boulevard. Four years later, at the dedication ceremonies, the guest speaker was Nobel Laureate Elie Wiesel.

Upon entering the grounds you are met by a visual sensation of contrasting elements; the brightness of the luminous Jerusalem stone, which is the basic material for the Memorial, and the stark, somber, black granite, which lines the walls.

The first piece of sculpture to be seen is a mother and two nestling children, all with hollowed out eyes. A few steps beyond is the "Arbor of History". A semi-circular colonnade of the stone supports a wooden arbor covered over with vines. On one side, etched in black granite, are photographs of the Holocaust history, beginning with a map indicating the number of years that Jews lived in the countries of Europe, followed by the Berlin Synagogue in flames; the beginning of Kristallnacht; Jews hanging from posts in the street, lines of naked women in front of a ditch into which they were thrown, to be buried by the next group of victims; locked cable cars. Children with facial expressions too awful to be described at the special medical experimentation unit at Auschwitz; piles of corpses. And more.

Opposite this is "The Lonely Path", a tunnel illuminated by thin slats of sunlight. Carved into the walls on both sides are names of the death camps. A low figure of a child, its mouth wide open, forcing you to hear silent screams, is seen in the distance and is right in front of you as you enter into the sunlight and blue sky.

I gasped at the sight before me. Tragic in its vision and dominating the scene was a most powerful image; an outstretched arm, forty-two feet high tattooed with a number. It was the last reach of a dying people asking G-D "Where are you?" Bronze figures in tormented positions cling to the skin. Stark terror on all the faces. On the stone ground on four sides of the arm are smaller sculptures of abandoned men, women, children and babies. With hopeless looks, every face is crying. All of this is encircled by a pool containing water lilies. With the warm Florida sun over me, I was cold. I shivered. I was overcome with such intense feeling of grief that I could not walk away.

I don't know how long I stood there before I continued on to the Memorial Wall. Here, etched into the black granite panels were the names of the martyred victims. One elderly man was touching a name and sobbing audibly. Many people, including me, were reading the names aloud. I too, was looking for a name. My Grandfather's family were among those murdered in Yugoslavia.

The final sculpture depicts the same mother and two children who started the journey, now dead. They are framed by the words of Anne Frank. "Ideals, dreams and cherished hopes rise within me only to meet the horrible truths and be shattered."

As I began my walk toward the exit, I paused in front of an elderly couple slouched on a stone bench in total dejection, unmoving as though they too were carved in stone, their faces silent cries. I wanted very much to talk to them to learn who they were but I could not, would not, intrude.

I walked away wiping tears from my cheeks and on my way out, looked up once more to read words carved in stone "In spite of everything, I still believe," Anne Frank.

Hague Burgomaster to attend exhibit opener

The Committee for the Exhibit "Anne Frank in the World" has announced that Dr. A. J. E. Havermans, Burgomaster of The Hague will be among the special guests in Ottawa for the opening on April 30.

A moving and exciting ceremony has been planned for the opening which will take place in the presence of the Ambassador of Israel to Canada, His Excellency Itzhak Shalef and the ambassador of the Netherlands. This will be followed by a visit to the War Museum next door and a tour of the exhibit.

Space for the opening evening is limited. However the Committee is setting aside a number of tickets for the special event. Those wishing to obtain tickets may do so by donating a minimum of one hundred dollars per couple to the project. A tax receipt for income tax will be issued. For additional information call Geri Migicovsky at 729-0333.

Organizers are especially

gratified that to date over 2,000 school children from the area have applied to tour this exhibit during its stay in Ottawa.

Anne Frank in the World will be on display at the Canadian War Museum on Sussex Drive and will be open to the public from Friday, May 1 through Sunday, May 31, 1992.
